Mvelopes Personal 3.0 Named One of “The 100 Best Products of The Year” by PC World

DRAPER, Utah — June 8, 2006 — Mvelopes Personal 3.0 was honored by PC World with a 2006 World Class Award — one of The 100 Best Products of the Year. PC World, the most widely-read business or computer magazine, announced the list in the July 2006 issue of PC World, which hits newsstands June 13 but is currently available online.

Mvelopes, which received the award in the Online Budgeting category, is based on a cash allocation method of budgeting, similar to traditional envelope budgeting where money is divided among paper envelopes designated for specific spending categories such as groceries, gas, clothing and entertainment. Mvelopes allows users to visually divide their income as they receive it among virtual envelopes, which function as separate spending accounts, based on how the user plans to use the money — including both spending and savings. Mvelopes then uses a secure internet connection to automatically retrieve all transactions from any account with online access, and keeps a running total of the balance of each envelope.

“Products that win PC World’s World Class Awards set the standard for excellence in the IT and consumer electronics industries,” stated Harry McCracken, editor in chief of PC World. “From notebook computers and security software to music players and Web sites, the editors reward the most outstanding performers in this annual awards program. Congratulations to Mvelopes Personal.”

Celebrating its 24th year, the respected World Class Awards honor products that meld practical features with innovation and reflect the rapidly changing technology marketplace. To select the winners, PC World’s editors examined hundreds of products, including those that have appeared in the magazine over the past 12 months. The 100 winning products and services were selected for their exemplary design and usability, features, performance, innovation, and price.
